WHO IS CITA?

CITA is an international not-for-profit association, based in Brussels, Belgium. It represents all types of organisations and stakeholders (government, private sector, dedicated inspection centres, garage-based test centres, test equipment manufacturers and other interested organisations) who share a common interest in exchanging information and developing best practices and proposals for international standards in the field of road vehicle inspection.

Its work focuses on improving transport sustainability with particular emphasis on road safety and environmental protection.

CITA is recognised by the Commission of the European Union and the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (particularly 'The World Forum for the Harmonisation of Vehicle Regulations – WP 29') for its expertise in relation to roadworthiness inspections. CITA currently has over 120 members worldwide, representing over 50 countries and covering more than 250 million vehicle inspections a year.
